Miss K.E. Bohrer, 76, Teacher in District For 45 Years, Dies

Miss Katherine E. Bohrer, 76, teacher in Washington's public schools for 45 years, died yesterday at her apartment, 1708 Newton street N.W., after a brief illness.

Miss Bohrer was a member of an old Washington family. She was the eldest daughter of George Philip Bohrer and Eva Hancock Bohrer, and was the first child christened at the Metropolitan Presbyterian Church, Fourth and B streets S.E.

Miss Bohrer was graduated from Central High School in 1890 and started her teaching career the next year at the Towers School. She continued teaching in various schools in the Northeast and Southeast sections of the city until her retirement in 1936. Among her pupils was Charles A. Lindbergh.

Miss Bohrer is survived by five sisters: Mrs. Irogene B. Clarke, widow of Oscar D. Clarke, late Supreme Court librarian, 3034 Newark street N.W.; Mrs. Elmon Cook, Kenesaw Apartment, Sixteenth and Irving streets N.W.; Mrs. Mary B. Williams, 1708 Newton street N.W.; Mrs. Drucilla B. Hallam, 1301 Vermont avenue N.W., and Mrs. H.C. Hallam, 3333 McKinley street N.W.

Funeral services will be conducted at 1 p.m. tomorrow at the Hines funeral home, Fourteenth and Harvard streets N.W., by Canon Curtis Draper of the Washington Cathedral. Burial will be in Congressional Cemetery.
