Stephen Cook

I would like very much to know if my maternal great grandfather Stephen Cook, who died in 1815 and whose monument is in Congressional Cemetery, Washington, D.C., was of the family of the famous Englishman, Captain James Cook, who was killed in Hawaii in 1779.

I have always understood that Stephen Cook came from the town of Sandwich on the east of England to this country previous to 1800. Stephen Cook was the father of my grandfather, Lt. Commander John Aquilla Cook, U.S.N., who died in 1834.
