C.H. Crocker Dies

Drops Dead in Office Where He Spent 37 Years

Charles H. Crocker, 68, clerk in the office of Columbia Title Insurance Co., 500 Fifth street, the past 37 years dropped dead at his place of employment this morning. He was stricken with an attack of heart disease shortly after he reached the office, and died before Dr. George Criswell responded to a call sent to Emergency Hospital.

The deceased was a nephew of the late Gen. John S. Crocker, warden of the District jail and son of the late Capt. W.C. Crocker, captain of the watch in the prison. He was a member of the National Union. The deceased resided with his wife at McLean, Va., his only child, a son, having died several years ago. His body was taken to Gawler's undertaking establishment.
