The DeSouter Case

Friends of the family who have been investigating the affairs of Joseph DeSouter, who was killed by inhaling illuminating gas, have discovered that several errors were made in the published reports. The first wife of the dead man [Catherine DeSouter] was never maintained in any hospital by charity, and she was buried in her own lot in Congressional cemetery. George E. Strubel, jr., who was connected with the case, was stated to be a married man, but is still living in single blessedness.
