Martha R.M. Frayser Dies of Heart Attack

Burial Services for Washington Woman Will be in Congressional Cemetery

Miss Martha R.M. Frayser, daughter of the late Collier C. and Margaret Frayser, died suddenly of a heart attack at her home, 523 Second street, in which she had lived since childhood, yesterday. As a stenographer, Miss Frayser worked for the United States Geological Survey, the late Senator A.J. McLaurin of Mississippi, and in the law office of the late Senator Charles J. Faulkner of West Virginia.

While funeral arrangements have not been definitely completed, it has been decided that burial will be in Congressional Cemetery. Two sisters, Miss Mary Frayser of this city, and Mrs. Patrick H. McCarthy of New Orleans, survive.
