A Missing Boy

A little boy, about seven years old, named Grant Freer, resident with his parents on 5th street, near Virginia avenue southeast, has been missing since yesterday afternoon, and is supposed to have been drowned in the Eastern branch, as he was last seen in that neighborhood.

Drowned--This morning, Richard Bolling recovered in the Eastern Branch, near Clark's wharf, the body of Grant Freer, the white boy, about 8 years old, who has been missing since Thursday evening. His body was taken to his father's residence, No. 728 5th street east, and the coroner decided that as death was caused by accidental drowning an inquest was unnecessary.
