

Peter G. Guigon (- 30 Jun 1895)

The Evening Star, March 16, 1859

The Atheneum Restaurant, No. 428 Penn. Avenue, north side, between 4 1/2 and 6th streets, having passed into the hands of P. Guigon & Co., will hereafter be conducted in a style making it vie with any similar establishment in the Union. P. Guigon, well known as long the head cook of the Kirkwood House will superintend the cuisine of the Atheneum in person, which fact will be, he trusts, a sufficient guarantee that the edibles placed before its guests will be exquisitely prepared and admirably selected. Oysters, game, and fish, of all varieties steaks, chops etc. and choicest wines, liquors, and cigars can at all times be found at the Atheneum.
