Samuel W. Henry Dies At Age Of 64

Brief Illness Is Fatal to Grocer and Bank Director, Who Was a Native of Washington

Samuel W. Henry, 64 years old, a grocer here for nearly a half century and a director of the Merchants Bank and trust Co. branch, Twentieth and Pennsylvania avenue, died early this morning at his residence, 1912 I street, after a brief illness.

Mr. Henry, a lifelong resident of Washington, as a business man and member of the West End Citizens' Association, was closely identified with the civic growth of his community. His grocery store, at 1917 Pennsylvania avenue, is one of the oldest in Washington.

Several years ago, when the old Exchange Bank of Washington, Twentieth street and Pennsylvania avenue, of which he was a director, was taken over by the Merchants Bank & Trust Co., Mr. Henry was retained as a director of the former. He was a member of the St. John's Masonic Lodge, No. 11, and Hiram Royal Arch Chapter, No. 10.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Amie Gwin Henry, he is survived by two sons, Jack W. and Clinton McElwee Henry. A brother and sister, Frank C. Henry and Mrs. Frank L. Averill, also survive. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.
