Imirie. Suddenly, July 29, 1892, Nettie, daughter of John and the late Ellen Imirie at residence, 182 6th street southwest.

Fold her waxen hands together
Close her soft and dreamy eyes.
See how like a broken lily
Pale but beautiful she lies.

Death of Miss Nettie Imirie

The many friends of Miss Nettie Imirie were shocked to learn of her sudden death on Friday morning of last week, at the residence of her father, Mr. John Imirie, 182 6th street southwest. For the past few months, Miss Imirie had been in constant attendance at the bedside of an invalid mother, who died less than three weeks ago, and the strain of the long and anxious watching, together with the excessive heat, resulted in her death. Miss Imirie was of a happy and buoyant temperament, which endeared her to a large circle of friends which made her the light of her home. For sixteen years she had been a member of the First Presbyterian Church of this city, and during all that time she was a faithful attendant upon its services and lived a devoted Christian life. Her character was singularly sweet and strong, and there are many today who owe the beginning of their Christian faith very largely to her life and to the influence of her personality. She was indeed a woman whom to know was to honor and to love. The funeral of Miss Imirie was held from her father's residence on Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock, and the esteem in which she was held was evidenced by the large gathering of friends who were in attendance. Interment was had at the Congressional cemetery. Rev. Mr. Holmes officiated.
