To Grandma
Her heart was overflowing
With love for everyone;
Of God's own chosen children,
She worked till life was done.

Her hands were ever busy,
Her smile reacted far and near.
I loved her, and she knew it,
She was so sweet, so dear.

She's only sleeping, resting,
With God's hand on her brow.
How many times her hands have smoothed
My pain away ere now.

Look down, dear grandma, and help me now
To do as you would have done;
My love is only human,
It's so hard to say, "Thy will be done."
Her Loving Granddaughter, Estelle
