Dies From Injury

Charles S. Keller, 77 years old, Bethesda, Md., fatally injured by an electric car, while crossing the tracks near his home early Thursday night, died at Georgetown University Hospital last night. Death resulted from cerebral concussion and shock.

Coroner Nevitt viewed the body at the hospital and signed the necessary death certificate, and police reported the fatality to the Maryland authorities.

The deceased, a native of this city, was retired from a position in the War Department, after a service of more than 50 years. He was an uncle of Mrs. John F. Waggaman, and resided with his son, Francis D. Keller, at Bethesda.

A daughter, Mrs. E.P. McConville, resides at 5309 Connecticut avenue. He also is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Louisa K. Camp, Atlantic Highland, N.J., and Mrs. John F. Mason, New York City, and two grandchildren, Emily E. and Donald H. McConville.
