E.R. Mahoney Succumbs

Business Man Was a Lifelong Resident of Capitol Hill

Edward R. Mahoney, a lifelong resident of Capitol Hill, died yesterday afternoon at his residence, 329 C street southeast, as the result of convulsions following an attack of Bright's disease, from which he had suffered for some time. Arrangements for the funeral have not been completed.

Mr. Mahoney, who was the son of John R. Mahoney, was in business with his father in the neighborhood in which he resided for many years, and he had a wide acquaintance among Capitol Hill people and Washingtonians generally. He was a member of the Independent Order of Rechabites, having attended a meeting of the lodge of that order with his father Friday night, and he was also a member of the Junior Order of American Mechanics and the Modern Woodmen, in addition to his father, he is survived by his wife and six children, two of whom, Robert Mahoney of Berwyn, Md., and Mrs. John Jones, are married and have children of their own, the other four children of Mr. Mahoney, two boys and two girls, being unmarried and between four and fourteen years old.
