Mrs. Miller was the mother of Neville D. Miller, classified advertising director of The Star. Mr. Miller has been with The Star for 47 years.

A constant reader, Mrs. Miller kept up with current events through the newspapers and radio. She was confined to her bed about three months ago. She was a member of the Westminster Presbyterian Church, Seventh and D streets S.W., and until recently was very active in church work.

Her earliest memories of Washington were the draping in black of the city's buildings at the time of Lincoln's death and of the many tents of Northern troops dotting the Monument grounds.
