Youth of 18 Dies of Infantile Paralysis
Had Been Ill Since Last Sunday --
Malady Proves Fatal to Another Baby

Joseph Robertson, seven months old, whose parents reside at 4th and M streets southeast, died yesterday of infantile paralysis. The case and death were reported at the health office today. There have now been fifteen deaths reported since the outbreak of the malady and the death rate is about 18 percent. The actual death rate is however, lower than that, because it is certain that there are many cases that have never been reported.
