Taylor Rites Planned

Former Court of Claims Clerk to Be Buried Tomorrow

Funeral services for George W. Taylor, 73, former clerk at the United States Court of Claims here, who died yesterday at New York, will be held in the chapel at Congressional Cemetery tomorrow afternoon. Burial will be in Congressional.

Mr. Taylor, whose father served as United States marshal here during the Lincoln administration, left the Court of Claims about 20 years ago after 27 years' service. He went to New York to practice law and for the last 13 years served the Brace Memorial Newsboys' House there as a notary and in other capacities.
