

Henry R. Taylor

(- 8 Jun 1834)

The National Intelligencer, June 12, 1834

Early on Monday morning last, after a short but severe illness, Mr. Henry R. Taylor, of England; for several years one of the reporters in the House of Representatives attached to the United States Telegraph. Mr. Taylor was a man of talents and education, and distinguished in his profession for a rapid, laborious, and successful performance of his arduous task. He was of a candid and affectionate disposition, and much beloved by his friends. He has left a widow and family to mourn his sudden departure from this world. -- Telegraph
