

Thomas P. Trott (- 28 Mar 1866)

The Evening Star, March 29, 1866

Death of Colonel Trott

Colonel Thomas P. Trott, for many years one of the principal Clerks, and latterly Chief Clerk, of the Post Office Department, died yesterday, after a lingering illness, at his residence on Capitol Hill. The deceased was one of the most efficient officers of the Government, and as long as he was able to work was regularly at his desk, and by his sterling integrity and faithfulness to his trust made many friends who will sincerely mourn his death.