

William H. Tucker

( - 6 Jul 1870)

---

Tucker. Sweetly fell asleep on the evening of July 6th, 1870 at country seat, Greenhurst, Md., William W. Tucker, aged 45 years and 6 months after a long and suffering illness of 18 months, in a hope of blessed immortality, perfectly resigned to live or to die. He was a dutiful son, a kind and affectionate husband, and a kind step father to his sons. A shadow has suddenly fallen upon his home that cannot be filled. A noble spirit has passed from this world. A name is left to be gilded with the shining light of manly virtue, intelligent and cultivated, generous and kind. We fondly remember him and pray that the ruthless hand of death, which smote him in his manly worth, may, may have transmitted him beyond the stormy waves of life to the haven of heavenly rest.

Farewell, dear Willie, till we meet in heaven,
Then we will meet to part no more.

The funeral will take place at the Methodist Protestant Church, 9th street at 9 o'clock, on Saturday, the 9th, to which the relatives and friends are respectfully invited to attend. His remains will be taken from his late residence on 9th street, No. 1327, between N and O streets.

The Evening Star, July 9, 1870

Dead

We are pained to announce the death of Mr. William W. Tucker, for many years a local reporter upon The Evening Star, and who was subsequently Police Magistrate in this city. He died yesterday at his farm, across the Eastern Branch, of consumption. The remains will brought to his former residence, 1327 Ninth street, between N and O, from whence he will be buried.

Mr. Tucker was an industrious and capable reporter, and an impartial and efficient magistrate. His kindness of heart and geniality made him many friends and he will be sincerely mourned by a large circle.