Funeral Services For Lifelong Resident

John O. Walker Died of Heart Disease With Which He Suffered Four Years

The death of John O. Walker, a lifelong resident of the District and veteran employe of the Southern Railway Company, who passed away at his residence, 927 K street northwest, early Sunday morning, was due to heart disease, with which he had suffered for about four years. Funeral services were held this afternoon at 3 o'clock from the family home under the auspices of the Association of Oldest Inhabitants, of which he was a member. Interment was private.

Mr. Walker was born in the District of Columbia seventy-one years ago, August 22. For the last twenty years of his life he had been in the employ of the Southern railway, first as a postal clerk running between here and Richmond, and later as captain of the watch in the local offices of the company.

About two years ago, owing to ill-health, he was retired on a pension and since that time had lived quietly at his home on K street.

He leaves a wife, Mrs. Lucie Walker, and two sisters, Mrs. M.E. Webster of this city and Mrs. O.A. Wilbur of Westfield, Mass.
