Zevely, Douglass, Columbia Historical Society, April 14, 1902

Adjoining these two houses is the home, now numbered 308, of Mrs. Virginia Whittlesey, widow of Comfort S. Whittlesey. It was first occupied by him in 1849 or 1850 and it was still his home when he died, June, 1864. The house has remained unchanged until now, and Mrs. Whittlesey has retained her home there since her husband's death. She has living with her one daughter, and another daughter, Mrs. Sergeant, also lives in this city.
