GSA Unit Manager Dies at 56

J. Julian Wolfersberger, 56, a retired official of the General Services Administration, died Thursday of lung cancer at Sibley Memorial Hospital. He lived at 5010 N. 27th st., Arlington.

Mr. Wolfersberger retired from the GSA in 1965 at which time he was project manager with the agency's defense materials service division.

He had been with GSA since the end of World War II when as an official with the strategic and critical materials division, he was involved in purchasing crude natural rubber for the national stockpile.

During the Korean War, Mr. Wolfersberger served as chief of the purchase and sales branch of GSA's rubber division. For his service in the position, he was presented the Government's Meritorious Service Award.

A native of Page County, Va., Mr. Wolfersberger began his 37 years of Government service with the Interior Department before World War II. During the war, he participated in the purchase of electrical and engineering equipment for the lend-lease program.

Survivors include his wife, Virginia; a son, Wayne E., and a daughter, Barbara L., all of the home; four sisters, Elsie L., Helen L., and Anne Corl, all of Falls Church and Doris Richbourg, of Greenville, S.C. and a brother, William H., of Brooklyn, N.Y.
